

Investing in France

The Invest in France Agency (AFII) is the government body with the job of promoting, canvassing and welcoming international investment in France.

France is the fifth world power in terms of gross domestic product, ranking third as a service exporter and second as an investor after the United States.

A land of prosperity, a great economic nation at the heart of Europe, the foremost world market, France also shares first place at the top of the league for direct foreign investment with China and comes fourth for international investments that create jobs and growth.

AFII is there for all international investors thinking of setting up or developing their operations in France.

AFII:

- creates the best setting for the success of investment projects,
- provides information on the legal framework and the system of government assistance,
- gives advice on choosing partners and siting,
- simplifies administrative procedures for legal, tax and social matters.

AFII:

- 22 offices worldwide,
- 75 representatives outside France (North America, Asia, Europe).
